T> Dear FCC, I'm writing to express my extreme opposition to lifting the ban on cell phone use aboard airplanes. Business communication is necessary, but the use of IM or laptops with emailing should be sufficient. This change in policy would be mostly taken advantage of by people who just want to chat away to kill time, like most already do in restaurants, trains, buses and pretty much everywhere. This would create such a noisy environment for everyone on the plane who is trying to either sleep or read. Please keep the ban intact.

Thank you for listening.
